20.4.2026 - | Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs

The ASEAN Industrial Projects Based Initiative (AIPBI) framework outlines a non-binding mechanism to accelerate industrial projects, across goods, talent, finance and policy.

This January 2025 update sets out the ASEAN Industrial Projects Based Initiative (AIPBI) framework for coordinated project-based industrial co-operation. It aims to boost regional competitiveness, value-chain resilience and sustainable development by aligning national priorities and mobilising private-sector leadership.

The document explains strategic goals, 5 guiding principles, and ASEAN-level facilitation on movement of goods and talent, blended finance and industrial policy co-ordination. It outlines a simple approval mechanism through senior economic officials, with independent expert assessment and non-binding facilitation packages. It defines minimum eligibility criteria, phased implementation using pathfinders, and monitoring with project-level KPIs linked to the strategic goals.

The intended audience is policymakers, ASEAN bodies, private proponents and financiers seeking to develop multi-country industrial projects.
