

CAPEXUS announces leadership changes to drive future growth

10.1.2025 - | Cijeuropa.com

CAPEXUS, a specialist in modern commercial space development, has announced significant changes in its management team, effective January 1, 2025.

Vlastimil Vyskočáni, currently Director of the Building Energy Cluster and a member of the Board of Directors of CEZ ESCO, will assume the role of CEO and Chairman of the Board of Directors on a temporary basis. He takes over from Monika Younis, who concluded her tenure as CEO and Managing Director on December 31, 2024. The company expressed gratitude to Younis for her significant contributions in strengthening CAPEXUS's market position.

The company's Board of Directors will be bolstered by the addition of Alexandra Tomášková, previously Chief Commercial Officer (CCO). Starting January 1, 2025, the board will consist of three members: Vlastimil Vyskočáni (CEO), Blanka Marešová (CFO), and Alexandra Tomášková (CCO). Meanwhile, Eva Hýšková Hánová, who joined CAPEXUS during its transitional phase, stepped down from the Board of Managing Directors as planned on December 31, 2024.

In late 2024, the company also welcomed Jan Kaláb as Chief Technical Officer (CTO), succeeding Ludvík Lusk. This addition further reinforces CAPEXUS's technical and operational capabilities.

CAPEXUS emphasized its commitment to maintaining a strong leadership team that will continue to deliver innovative solutions and achieve company goals. The organization expressed confidence that these leadership changes will pave the way for sustained growth and success in the years ahead.

These strategic appointments underscore CAPEXUS's dedication to adaptability and excellence in the dynamic commercial space sector.
