

The UN sanctions regime remains an essential tool to address insecurity in Haiti and to alleviate the suffering of the Haitian people: UK Explanation of Vote at the UN Security Council

Datum 14.10.2026
Subjekt UK Ministry of Defence
Autor Sarah MacIntosh
Region Veľká Británia
Kategorie Politika, Medzinárodné organizácie, Bezpečnosť

UK Explanation of Vote delivered by Ambassador Sarah MacIntosh, UK Permanent Representative to the UN, following the UN Security Council vote on Haiti.

The United Kingdom voted in favour of this resolution, and welcome its adoption.

We thank the United States and Panama for your work as penholders.

The United Kingdom condemns the violence that continues to undermine efforts to restore democratic rule and stability in Haiti.

The UN sanctions regime and arms embargo remain essential tools to address insecurity in Haiti and to alleviate the suffering of the Haitian people.

We should take action to implement this regime and to embrace the recommendations of the panel of experts.

We welcome the Council's focus on the misappropriation and diversion of public resources, and remain deeply concerned by widespread sexual and gender-based violence in Haiti.

The United Kingdom will continue to work in support of Haiti and her people.

<https://www.gov.uk/government/speeches/the-un-sanctions-regime-remains-an-essential-tool-to-address-insecurity-in-haiti-and-to-alleviate-the-suffering-of-the-haitian-people-uk-explanation-o>